

Expect Major Announcement, New Season to Be Here Soon

Posted on Thursday, March 7

As Opening Day approaches – can it be only 28 days away? -- the sense of anticipation becomes that much greater for baseball fans everywhere.

Rest assured that nobody is more anxious than the Chicago Baseball Museum for the first pitch to be thrown in the regular season.

We have some exciting events planned for the new season, the first of which will be announced later this month. Local die-hards won't want to miss it.

Stay tuned.