

Team Epstein Raises Bar, Hopes at Cubs Convention

Posted on Sunday, Jan. 15

By Paul Ladewski

An unmistakable sense of anticipation filled the Cubs Convention this weekend. And the feel-good atmosphere went far beyond the new patio deck and additional scoreboard that were announced for Wrigley Field next season.

Operations chief Theo Epstein set the tone on Saturday, when he promised more discipline and accountability for the players on and off the field in the future.

If the new management team makes good on its promise, then fans will have reason to be excited, indeed.